This is an interactive map showing the counties and/or regions covered by nonprofit affordable housing developers and intermediaries working in rural parts of California. For more information about each organization, click on its name. The California Institute for Behavioral Health Solutions (CIBHS) has created this map to assist small and rural counties with identifying and developing partnerships with housing developers in their areas to address the increasing problem of rural homelessness. Please contact Shoshana Zatz at szatz@cibhs.org if you have any questions.
