

Emily Q. Chung, MPH MCHES is the Program Director for Whole Person Care – Cruz to Health, a pilot program designed to bring county and community partners together to improve the health and well-being of individuals in the County of Santa Cruz. Prior to joining the County of Santa Cruz, Health Services Agency, Behavioral Health Division, Emily worked to advance public health and health policies in the counties of Santa Clara and Los Angeles. Emily has coordinated large scale programs with schools, communities, and county agencies with a focus on adolescent and sexual health, government affairs, and improving social determinants of health. Emily received a Bachelor's degree in Psychology from UC Berkeley, a Master of Public Health (MPH) from the UCLA Fielding School of Public Health, and is a Master Certified Health Education Specialist (MCHES).