  The California criminal justice system is frequently required to engage with many mentally ill individuals. It has traditionally not managed this task well. This is a status report on the efforts to implement those recommendations.

Peer supportive programs play a uniquely important role in helping people with mental health conditions succeed in the community, as a special complement or alternative to traditional care structures. More and more peer specialist services are augmenting care for consumers, building community supports for a prevention/early intervention driven system that truly embodies recovery oriented care. Consumer peer specialists in mobile crisis outreach, bridging and peer respite represent significant opportunities for positive engagement, self-help and symptom management when people are experiencing their hardest moments. As an alternative to hospitalization, loss of rights and dignity through 5150 processes and potentially adverse experiences associated with unnecessarily restrictive settings, where these are the only option for people in crisis, these services may achieve substantial suicide reduction and public cost savings, if systematically implemented.

This moderated panel of nationally recognized leaders, researchers and program developers implementing different peer respite approaches will discuss the value, challenges and opportunities represented by this transformative approach to helping people though acute distress.

The California Council of Community Mental Health Agencies (CCCMHA) promotes comprehensive, responsive, and integrated service systems by enhancing the ability of nonprofit member agencies to provide mental health services that empower the people we serve to lead full and productive lives.

The California Mental Health Services Authority (CalMHSA) is an organization of county governments working to improve mental health outcomes for individuals, families and communities. Prevention and Early Intervention Programs implemented by CalMHSA are funded by counties through the voter-approved Mental Health Services Act (Prop 63).

The California Association of Alcohol and Drug Program Executives, Inc. (CAADPE) is a statewide association of community-based nonprofit substance use treatment agencies. Its members provide substance use disorder (SUD) treatment services at over 300 sites throughout the state and constitute the infrastructure of the state’s publicly funded substance use disorder treatment network. It is the only statewide association representing all modalities of substance use disorder treatment services.

The County Alcohol and Drug Program Administrators’ Association of California (CADPAAC) is a non-profit organization comprised of the designated county alcohol and drug program administrators representing the 58 counties within California.

CADPAAC is dedicated to the reduction of individual and community problems (from public safety to education, to health care) related to the use of alcohol and other drugs.

The Alcohol and Other Drug Policy Institute (ADPI) works to advance substance use disorder (SUD) service in California through the creation and dissemination of knowledge concerning substance use disorders and their amelioration at the individual and community levels. Our work extends from informing broad policy initiatives addressing statewide concerns to working with local level service systems and providers.

The California Mental Health Directors Association is dedicated to the accessibility of quality cost-effective mental health care for the people of California. Principal goals are to advocate for quality mental health systems of care, which are culturally competent, consumer-guided, family-sensitive, and community-based.

The California Institute for Mental Health is a non-profit public interest corporation established for the purpose to promote wellness and positive mental health and substance use disorder outcomes through improvements in California’s Health System. CiMH is dedicated to a vision of “a community and mental health services system which provides recovery and full social integration for persons with psychiatric disabilities; sustains and supports families and children; and promotes mental health wellness.”
