a statewide effort focusing on prevention and early intervention strategies which address the mental health needs of community college students
CCC SMHP is funded through the voter-approved Mental Health Services Act (Prop 63) through the California Mental Health Services Authority.
CCC SMHP
Transition Age Youth Program
“Healthy Transitions”
Curriculum designed to address the mental health and wellness needs of young people preparing to transition out of the California foster care system.

Goal to get youth engaged with supportive adults who can serve as strong role models implementing prevention and early intervention services to support wellness.
Between 2013-2015, program provided services to approximately 2,000 youth.
There are currently 62,600 children and youth in the California foster care system.
Approximately 4,000 young adults age out of foster care in California annually.
